CAROLE BLOOM

Founder & President of Bloomstone Group

Over the past 25 years, Bloomstone Group founder and president Carole Bloom has sold and leased in excess of $2 billion in residential properties and directed the leasing of more than 30,000 rental units in New York City. She has provided expert advisory services, both on staff and as a consultant, to some of New York City's most respected and accomplished real estate companies and brokerages, including the Related Companies, the Gotham Organization, Manhattan Skyline Management Corporation, Durst Fetner Residential, Shorenstein & Imperial Companies, Brown Harris Stevens, and Halstead.

A Licensed Real Estate Broker in the State of New York, and broker of record for many projects, Carole also maintains excellent working relationships with leading Manhattan brokerages. Bloomstone Group has collaborated on the marketing, sales, and leasing of premier properties with Halstead Property and Brown Harris Stevens Project Marketing Group, among others.

Carole began her real estate career at the Related Companies in 1992, where she held senior positions in both the Rentals and Sales Divisions. Her accomplishments at Related include increasing rental building revenues by up to 20% while maintaining 99% overall occupancy, and selling Related's pre-construction condominiums.

The daughter of an artist, and a great niece of sculptor Sir Jacob Epstein, who was a student of Rodin, Carole's life has always been influenced by art. Outside of work, she is a music aficionado. After graduating from the Fiorello LaGuardia High School for the Performing Arts in Manhattan and studying opera at the Manhattan School of Music, Carole earned a Bachelor of Music Degree from The Hartt School of Music at The University of Hartford. Her sensibility for theatrical arts serves her well in the development of high-impact marketing campaigns for New York City's finest residential properties.

Carole is a member of The Real Estate Board of New York and AIPAC Real Estate.
